M. R. SCHLESSINGER has invented a Metallic Pen which supplies a want long existing. It is coated with gutta percha, and most effectually resists the corrosive properties of the ink, and, being pointed with platina, has all the flexibility and smoothness so desirable in writing. It is equal in all respects to the most highly finished diamond-pointed gold pens, and is to be had at a price so reasonable that it must come into universal use.

This highly useful and desirable pen has been tested already in this city in engrossing on parchment, and in the ordinary business writings, and its superiority is fully admitted. GEORGE S. BACON.

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

It is seldom we see a radical cure in fever and ague, under the common treatment of quintine, arsonic, and patent medicines so highly extelled by physicians. There are objections to the general use of quintine, as some has been found to contain arsonic, and the use of it has been followed by swelling of the face, spicen, liver, &c. Another objection is, the disease is very liable to recur, upon slight exposure or fatigue. The patient will find a permanent cure, or the money refunded, at the German Medical Office of Doctors BROTHERS & GRAY, opposite the Smithsonian Institution, Island.

BENJAMIN & MICOU. [This is a decision in favor of the heirs vs. the validity of the will.]

Judge McCaleb to-day rendered a decision on the McDonogh will case, declaring null and void the claims of New Orleans, Baltimore, Louisiana, and Maryland. The will is completely broken, and the property goes to the heirs at law. In declaring the share belonging to each heir, the executors were ordered to account for past administration to the share belonging to each heir, the ministration to a master in chancery.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—A very large demonstration has been made by the Native Americans this evening. They marched in procession from the different districts to Independence Square, with torches and banners. Two ships on wheels continued firing salutes, whilst a large alarm bell on wheels kept tolling constantly. After the as-semblage at the Square speeches were delivered by Wm. D. Baker and a few others, when the meeting adjourned. The procession was then again formed, and is now marching through the various districts. Their numbers are larger than was anticipated, though not equalling the Dem-ber of Congress, and members of the legislature. Geo. T. Ward, Whig, and Jas. S. Brown, Dem., were the candidates for governor, and Edw. C. Cabell, Whig, and A. E. Maxwell, Dem., were the candidates for Congress. In Santa Rosa and Duvall counties the Whigs have majorities. In Escambia county there is a majority for Brown, Dem., for governor, and Cabell, Whig, for Congress. In 1848 Santa Resa gave a large Whig majority, and Duvall and Escambia small majorities for the same party. Sufficient returns have not been received to indicate the result of the late election.

NEW ORLEANS, October 7 .- Captain Porter, of the steamer Crescent City, the arrival of which here was telegraphed to you yesterday, has made a statement of the proceedings at Havana in regard to the refusal of the Captain General of Cuba to permit his vessel to enter the harbor or land either passengers or mail. He says that, as the Crescent City approached Havana, she was met by the boarding officers at the mouth of the harbor, who motioned that she should not enter, which Captain Porter disregarded, and proceeded to the anchorage. The boarding officers then came on board the steamer, and finding the name of Mr. Smith, the Purser, on the ship's articles, handed Captain Porter an order from the Captain

WESLEY AND HIS COADJUTORS.

WESLEY AND HIS COADJUTORS.

SELDOM have I taken up a book of biography with which I have been so well pleased and really profited as with Weeley and his Coadjutors, by Prof. Larrabee. Those pure pages sparkle like diamonds, with strange as well as beautiful incidents, touching in turn every chord of the human heart, and arousing its latent energies to deeds of noble daring. Wesley is exhibited as he really was, a most wonderful man; wonderful principally as an agent of Providence in reviving pure religion in the world.

The second volume opens with Charles Weeley, that prince of lyric poets, who is made to pass before the readar so well defined that he seems to see his form and hear his voice, and be thrilled with his sublime hymns, a rich legacy left to the Church in all after time.

Whitchield, the pecciese orator and devoted Christian, next appears, with his matchless powers, arousing Great Rritain and America with an eloquence and unction that literally bore down all before it, turning the people to God by thousands, till from the most degraded—degraded because forsaken of their religious teachers—plants of righteousness were seen springing up and adorning the garden of the Lord. John Pletcher closes the list of notable worthles in the two volumes before us, and every way worthy is he to do it. He is made to pass along in his own incomparable, beautiful simplicity, with a holiness all but superhuman, possessing talents that an angel might have envied; the acutest and ablest controversialist writer of his own or any subsequent age.—Zion's Herald.

Transition Coal.

This rare and valuable Coal is a variety not quite changed into an anthracite, and it has only been discovered (in large quantities) at three places upon our globe, viz: at South Wales, Great Britain; at Donetz, in Russia, near the Biack Sea; and at Dauphin and Lebanon counties, Fonnsylvania. In the London market this coal commands the highest price. It is now mined upon the large estate (43,000 across) of the Dauphin and Susquehanna Coal Company, situated in Pennsylvania, and it is nearer to the cities of Baltimore and Washington than the coal of any other region. For easy ignition, durability of fire, complete combustion, casy adaptation to the temperature of the weather, and its great power in generating heat, it is the near coal in the world. It has the inflammability of the bituminous coal, with the cleanliness of the anthracits, and a greater durability than either. It burns without making any soot or visible smoke, and the combustion is so complete that it retains the fire until all the coal is consumed. Not so with the anthracites, especially the hard and heavy kinds. They do not burn up, and hence the common troublesome practice of sitting their ashes to obtain more fuel. In burning the Transition Coal there is no vects, for the small coals made by handling, burn as well as ordinary coal. All should be burned together. If screened at all the duet only should be taken out. Transition Coal.

by handling, burn as well as ordinary coal. All should be taken out.

A very erroneous impression exists with many persons that the heaviest coals are the most economical for ordinary purposes. This might be the case if coals were sold by measurement, but never when they are sold by wrear. In Taylor's valuable work, (Statistics of Coal,) the details are given to show that 31 pounds of a free-burning red ash yielded more heat to a room in 16 hours, than 37 pounds of a heavy white ash coal, making the red ash, at $5 50, to be more economical than the white ash at $4 01 per ton. Any person accustomed to use these heavy coals will be astonished at the saving which can be made in burning the lighter kinds, when tested by the weight and burnt in a suitable manner.

An apprehension exists with some that the free-burning coals have a tendency to clinker. Now, as a general rule, no coal will clinker unless agreater draught be applied to it than the coal naturally requires. No one would think of applying a bellow constantly to a fire made of seasoned hickory or oak wood, and it would be equally as absurd to apply a blact constantly to a free-burning coal. But the heavy white ssh anthracites cannot be burnt without a powerful draft, and without using a larger quantity, of coal than the temperature of the weather sometimes requires. Various patterns of stoves, furances, cooking ranges, &c., are invented annually to conquer this difficulty, but it has never been done with complete success. In every contrivance, however, which has been invented to burn coal, the transition variety will make a beautiful fire, and no complaint will ever be made to a manufacturer or seller of grates or stoves when this coal is used. The draft alone is to be regulated by a damper. In introducing this new coal for the first time, propared as it now is by steam power machinery for domestic use, it may give greater confidence to the buyer to say that the celebrated free-burning red ash veins in the Peach Orchard district, near Pottsville, are a con
